

Those looking to explore this vibrant coast can choose from a variety of popular beaches, including Velipoja, Shëngjin, Durrës, Golem, Spille, Divjakë, and Vlorë, just to name a few.

Vlora is a prime destination for Albanian tourism, offering beachgoers and divers alike a variety of natural attractions.

The city's beach area begins directly south of the urban center. Durrësi Beach, the largest and most visited in Albania, offers an exceptional experience with excellent cuisine and lots of fun. Spille Beach is a true paradise of nature, surrounded by pine trees. Golem, Mali i Robit and Currila Beach in Durrës are ideal for families and offers many tourist attractions. Shëngjin Beach, located 8 km from Lezha, is an oasis of golden sand and warm sun, known for its natural beauty and delicious local cuisine. Rana e Hedhun in Shëngjin, a picturesque Adriatic beach, is surrounded by pine forests and offers a deep sense of freedom and connection with nature. Velipoja Beach, located approximately 30 kilometers from the town of Shkodra near the Montenegrin border, is the northernmost beach in Albania.

ALBANIAN COASTLINE

The western coastline of Albania stretches an impressive length of 450 km, beautifully lining the shores of the Adriatic and Ionian Seas. This stunning landscape is characterized by a mix of rugged cliffs, sandy beaches, and charming coastal towns. The region offers visitors a diverse blend of history, culture, and natural beauty, making Albania's coastline a hidden gem in the Mediterranean. The gentle sandy shores and crystal-clear waters of the Adriatic merge with the dramatic beaches and breathtaking green-blue waters of the Ionian Sea at Cape of Gjuhëza in the Karaburun Peninsula.

The Albanian Riviera offers a variety of stunning beaches, including Gjipe Beach, Dhërmiu Beach, Livadhi Beach, Lukova Beach, Pulëbardha Beach, Pasqyrat Beach, Palasa Beach, Jali Beach, and Borshi Beach. Dhërmiu Beach, located on the Albanian coast, is known for its crystal-clear water and stunning scenery. Himara's Livadhi Beach is renowned for its dark blue waters and olive groves. August is the peak season for Pasqyrat Beach, which is a hidden gem that tends to be crowded during July and August.

In contrast to the bustling tourist destination of Jali Beach, Palasa Beach offers a natural setting with mesmerizing sea watercolors. Borshi Beach boasts a 7-kilometer coastline, highlighted by a narrow stretch of small white pebbles. Experience the magic of Albania's western Adriatic coast: fourteen kilometers of the iodine-filled shoreline in a serene Mediterranean paradise. The gentle, shallow beaches along the Adriatic are perfect for family vacations, offering a great environment for relaxation and fun.
